2014–15 Annual Report of Private Giving

Winter carnival, snow sculptures, Maine Bound trips to Sugarloaf, snowshoeing on campus trails, hockey and basketball games, Greek events such as Beta Theta Pi's annual February sleep out, and Yuletide concerts are just some of the many winter traditions that have inspired UMaine alumni and friends for generations.

2014–15 Annual Report of Private Giving

Letter from President Susan J. Hunter

“Whether you have been inspired by your own student experience, a passion for a particular program, the memory of a loved one or something altogether different — we are thankful for your commitment to us.”

President Susan J. Hunter '50H, Ph.D.

Dear Friends,

Private support has never been more important to the University of Maine. Your gifts make the UMaine experience possible for thousands of students every year. Thanks to you, we are able to attract and retain outstanding faculty and staff, and engage with communities throughout and well beyond our state. Without generous alumni and friends, our campus would look very different. Our grounds, research and teaching laboratories, concert and lecture halls, museums, sports facilities, and student living and learning spaces have been transformed as a result of personal generosity and thoughtfulness.

As President, my hours on campus range widely, including very early in the morning on my way to our New Balance Student Recreation Center. At that time of day, the campus is almost perfectly still. I always welcome the chance to reflect upon not only the busy day ahead, but also upon those of you, individually and collectively, who make such a difference for UMaine. The company we keep, indeed, could not be better.

Warm regards,

Susan J. Hunter '50H, Ph.D.
President

Inspired by the sea

The faculty, staff and students at the Darling Marine Center have been conducting research on the Damariscotta River Estuary, the Gulf of Maine, and the world's oceans for 50 years. The Darling Marine Center celebrated its 50th anniversary in 2015 with special seminars, walking tours, an open house and more. Private support is important to the center and its scientific diving program, laboratory and facility improvements, student and faculty support, and community outreach.

The center was established in 1965 through a generous estate gift from Ira C. Darling.

Letter from Jeffery N. Mills and Robert Q. Dana

Jeffery N. Mills '82

Robert Q. Dana '80

Greetings from Orono.

It is our pleasure to provide you with our 2014–15 Annual Report of Private Giving. The support of alumni and friends has averaged $20 million per year over the past seven years. We are humbled by such generosity and often find ourselves asking the same question — what inspired these gifts?

Some donors wish to honor mentors or loved ones — husbands, wives, parents, children, classmates, teammates, friends and neighbors. Their gifts help to keep memories and feelings alive. Other donors describe personal passions that fuel their giving — Black Bear athletics, our museums, and diverse student activities and academic programs. Philanthropy also serves as a means of making the world a better place, helping to reduce hunger, environmental degradation, poverty, illiteracy, disease, and other problems that concern many of our faculty, students and staff. For some donors, including our corporate partners, private support is a vehicle for economic development, strengthening UMaine resources that are essential to the growth of individual companies and entire industries.

It is exceptionally rewarding when we can forge a match between our donors' passions and values and UMaine's needs and opportunities. The match is rarely static; donors' interests grow just as our university grows. We look forward to growing together with you, our donors, bettering our university, our state, our nation, and the world we live in.

Thank you for inspiring us.

Yours for the University of Maine,

2015 Stillwater Presidential Awardees

The Stillwater Society recognizes the University of Maine's most generous donors and loyal advocates whose philanthropy reflects deep and diverse passions. Since 2001, UMaine has presented a number of alumni and friends with a prestigious Stillwater Presidential Award. The university's 2015 honorees included Sandra Blake Leonard '65, Norman Minsky '52H, and Alan '58 and Sheila Menchen Merritt '66G.

Inspired by passion

Sandra “Sandy” Blake Leonard ’65 has supported a number of campus needs over the years, but her philanthropic passions are now directed to the University of Maine Museum of Art. Avid art collectors, Sandy and her late husband, Edward D. “Ted” Leonard ’65, led an effort to facilitate the museum’s move to Bangor and subsequent growth. Sandy has served as chair of the museum’s board and established the Edward D. Leonard III ’65 Lecture Series Fund in 2008. George Kinghorn, director of the University of Maine Museum of Art says, “Sandy is a tremendous advocate for our museum. Her generosity, wisdom and vision have changed the visual arts scene in our region.”

Like Sandy, Alan ’58 and Sheila Menchen Merritt ’66G hold degrees from the University of Maine. Athletes, coaches and fellow fans recognize the Merritts as loyal fans and supporters of UMaine Athletics. In addition to their passion for the Black Bears and UMaine’s Hudson Museum, the Merritts note that their philanthropy has been inspired in part by Alan’s parents and by the conviction that giving is “the right thing to do.”

Norman Minsky ’52H also received a Stillwater Presidential Award in 2015. An alumnus of Boston University, Norman appreciates all that a land grant university brings to the community, including many opportunities for cultural and intellectual enrichment. Highly regarded for his record of public service in and well beyond Bangor, Norman is an enthusiastic donor to Judaic Studies and other programs at UMaine. More broadly, he is a vocal proponent for studying the world’s religions as a means of understanding complex global issues.

“Our university is a powerful force, reaching into every part of our state. It is a center for arts, entertainment and athletics. It is a place of academic excellence and a powerful economic engine. Above all, it is a creator of opportunity.”

Inspired by a forestry partnership

Plum Creek Timber Company is the largest and most geographically diverse public landowner in the nation. Based in Seattle, Plum Creek owns more than 6 million acres in major timber producing regions of the United States, including 961,000 acres in Maine's Piscataquis, Somerset, Franklin and Penobscot counties. Recently, the company entered into a definitive agreement to merge with Weyerhaeuser, an international forest products company.

Plum Creek's support of UMaine's students, research and programs is broad and deep. Thanks to a recent gift, for example, UMaine was able to renovate a large conference room in Nutting Hall, home to UMaine's School of Forest Resources. The new Plum Creek Conference Room is a hub for student presentations, seminars, classes and visiting scholars.

Plum Creek Timber Company is an active member in the Cooperative Forestry Research Unit. This group of forestland owners and managers funds scientific research at UMaine, developing new information to improve sustainable forest management practices throughout and beyond Maine.

The relationship between Plum Creek and UMaine goes both ways. Plum Creek has found some of its best and brightest summer interns and employees through UMaine's forestry programs. Mark Doty '86 is the community affairs manager for Plum Creek's Northeast headquarters in Fairfield. Noting that Plum Creek's priorities include a strong commitment to the environment, conservation and community, Doty shared that at least 18 UMaine graduates are employed with Plum Creek in Maine. Several other graduates work for Plum Creek in other states.

“UMaine students come ready to work with a great work ethic and a can-do attitude. We want to support the University of Maine because it is a valuable resource for the state and the forest products industry.”

Mark Doty '86, Community Affairs Manager
Plum Creek Timber Company, Northeast Headquarters

The Plum Creek Forestry Summer Camp Safety Fund provides safety equipment for the five weeks of field experiences offered annually by the School of Forest Resources. The program impacts 80 students each year.

“This is an exciting time for women’s athletics and Maine women’s basketball specifically.

We are proud to be able to work with such a great partner who understands this focus on women’s athletics and makes a concerted effort to support our programs and future athletes across the state.”

Karlton Creech, UMaine Director of Athletics

A biology major with a pre-med concentration, Liz Wood '16 was named the America East's 2014–15 Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year. Wood is the first Black Bear to receive this honor. In addition, for the third-straight year in 2015, she was named one of 103 nominees for the 2016 Allstate Women's Basketball Coaches Association Good Works Team.

Inspired by leadership and community engagement

Over the years, Bangor Savings Bank has supported many activities at the University of Maine, including but not limited to cultural and athletic events. In 2015, the bank became the title sponsor of women's basketball. Through an agreement involving Black Bear Sports Properties, the bank will underwrite free youth clinics overseen by the women's basketball program, support the Bangor Savings Bank Ball Kids Program, provide T-shirts to ball girls and boys at UMaine basketball games and donate game tickets to local nonprofit organizations that serve girls in the community.

“They’re winning the right way and I think that resonates for Maine,” says Bob Montgomery-Rice, CEO and president of Bangor Savings Bank. “This one was about leadership, about the university, and it’s really about what this team represents,” Montgomery-Rice says. “They’re connecting with the community.”

Inspired by industry

The University of Maine Pulp & Paper Foundation celebrated its 65th anniversary in 2015. In addition to strengthening the pulp and paper and allied industries, the foundation has helped many UMaine students, including Sage Duguay '17 of Waterville, afford and prepare for meaningful careers. Duguay's interest in engineering was piqued by the foundation's Consider Engineering summer program for high school juniors. "The program confirmed that engineering would be a good challenge for me," says Duguay.

Duguay is active in many student organizations, including the American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AIChE) and TAPPI/PIMA. She is a student vice president on the executive committee of the Pulp & Paper Foundation and president of TREE (Travel and Research Expedition: Europe), and looks forward to joining other UMaine students on an industry-related trip to Sweden in 2017.

Duguay holds three scholarships from the Pulp & Paper Foundation and already is making many connections in the industry. She admits that interacting with CEOs and other leaders was intimidating at first, but upperclassmen and foundation staff do a great job of encouraging and mentoring first-year students in the program.

In addition to her academic and preprofessional activities, Duguay is a scholar-athlete who throws the javelin for the University of Maine Black Bears. "I'm pretty busy," she admits. "And beyond my co-op experiences and activities on campus, I really like to make sure I spend time at home with my family and especially my younger brother."

"UMaine put together the best financial offer, and I was very impressed by the Pulp & Paper Foundation's industry partnerships that will allow me to have three semesters of work experience while I complete my chemical engineering degree."

“I would like to keep up the tradition of mineralogy and petrology at the School of Earth and Climate Sciences, for which the school is renowned. In addition, supporting a professorship is a family tradition, and I hope to set a precedent so that other faculty step forward and donate funds to further the school’s internationally recognized research.”

Professor Ed Grew

The College of Natural Sciences, Forestry, and Agriculture has benefited from three additional term professorships in recent years. The Farm Credit Assistant Professorship of Production Economics and Agricultural Finance was established in 2013, the George H. Denton Professorship of Earth Sciences was established in 2014, and the C. Ann Merrifield Professorship in Life Sciences Education was established in 2015.

Inspired by scholarship

Professor Ed Grew has been at the University of Maine since 1984 as a research scientist, educator, and mentor to undergraduate and graduate students.

In November 2014, he established two funds. The Edward Sturgis Grew Earth Sciences Endowment supports students in the School of Earth and Climate Sciences, offsetting the costs associated with field trips, field experiences, and field camp, research, internships and networking events. The Edward Sturgis Grew Professorship in Petrology and Mineralogy supports a new, tenure-eligible faculty position in the School of Earth and Climate Sciences. The term professorship provides annual support for five years, with an option to renew.

“Term professorships make a tremendous difference to our programs,” says Edward Ashworth, dean of the College of Natural Sciences, Forestry, and Agriculture. “They allow us to attract and retain highly qualified faculty who, in turn, provide the best possible education for our students. We are most grateful for the thoughtful donors who make our term professorships possible.”

Grew received a B.A. from Dartmouth College and a Ph.D. from Harvard University. He served in post-doctoral positions at the U.S. Geological Survey, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of California at Los Angeles. His distinguished career in mineralogy and metamorphic petrology has included significant international fieldwork, funded by 24 research grants and resulting in over 160 peer-reviewed publications, two edited volumes, and numerous presentations at national and international scientific conferences. Grew also has brought significant international recognition to UMaine by contributing to the discovery of 17 new minerals, two of which have been named in his honor. In 2007, he was elected Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Cheryl M. Coffin M.D. chose to retire "sooner than she might have" from her position as vice chair for anatomic pathology and the Goodpasture Professor of Investigative Pathology for Translational Research at Vanderbilt University, and she is now professor emerita. She returned to Maine to spend more time with her family, including her husband, Ralph Topham, and her mother, E.H. Marcelle Coffin, and to pursue her lifelong interest in the visual arts. In addition to taking studio art classes at UMaine as a nontraditional student, Coffin serves on the board of the UMaine Museum of Art Alliance. "Cheryl's dedication to our museum, and energy for pursuing her passion and gifts as a visual artist are nothing short of inspiring," says George Kinghorn, director of the UMaine Museum of Art. "Her quiet generosity, coupled with her thoughtful counsel, helps to advance the museum's mission of increasing an awareness and appreciation of modern and contemporary art among our visitors through UMMA's exhibitions and educational programs."

Inspired by nontraditional students and lifelong learning

As a result of personal experience or after hearing the stories of others, many donors choose to direct their gifts to help meet the needs of nontraditional students. These students represent a significant and growing population at UMaine. In fall 2015, 796 undergraduate students age 25 or older were enrolled at UMaine; of these, 640 were seeking degrees.

As part of the Division of Lifelong Learning, the Hutchinson Center in Belfast serves many nontraditional students. The center broadens access to UMaine academic and nondegree programs and services, lifelong learning opportunities, and professional and career development experiences. The center recently received nearly $1 million from the estate of Belfast resident Marilyn Duane to benefit scholarships and outreach efforts. Duane was inspired by Dr. James “Jim” C. Patterson, who received a Certificate of Advanced Study from UMaine in 1983 and was the founding director of the Hutchinson Center.

The Duane estate will support several scholarships and an outreach fund that will be used for Hutchinson Center educational programming for personal enrichment, professional development, continuing education, and/or early college opportunities at reduced or no cost to participants.

Monique LaRocque '83, associate provost for the Division of Lifelong Learning, notes that many adults in Maine have earned some college credits, but have not finished their degree due to life circumstances. The Marilyn Duane scholarship fund will enable many adults to complete their college educations and open doors for their careers or for their own fulfillment.

“Gifts such as Mrs. Duane’s have the power to not only change the life of an adult recipient, but dramatically change the educational pathway of future generations.”

Monique LaRocque '83, Associate Provost for the Division of Lifelong Learning

Lee Woodward Jr. '77, Esq. (left) and James “Jim” C. Patterson '83G were instrumental in the Duane estate, which provides valuable support for lifelong learning at the Hutchinson Center in Belfast.

“The gift from the Corrells gave us the foundation to get this work started. Their contribution to our work is immeasurable. The children, families and teachers of Maine have already benefited from their thoughtfulness. With the continued development of the Lifespan Community Literacy Center, the Corrells’ influence will be felt not only across Maine, but nationally as our research is shared with the field, now and well into the future.”

Susan Bennett-Armistead
Correll Professor of Early Literacy

Ada Lee and Alston D. Correll '66G, '67G

Inspired by children

Alston “Pete” D. Correll '66G, '67G and his wife Ada Lee were among the most generous donors to Campaign Maine. Their $2 million gift in 2009 directly supported three faculty members and many graduate students. Susan Bennett-Armistead was named the Correll Professor of Early Literacy in the College of Education and Human Development for a five-year term. The Corrells’ investment in early childhood education reflects Ada Lee Correll’s experience as a public school teacher in Old Town.

The Corrells’ generous gift allowed Bennett-Armistead to accomplish a great deal, including but not limited to an annual conference for early educators with nationally recognized speakers, a new national book award, and literacy-related research and travel.

As part of her travel, Bennett-Armistead reviewed family literacy clinics across the country. At UMaine, she launched the Lifespan Community Literacy Center. Unlike any other center in the U.S., UMaine’s center offers a cradle-to-grave approach to tutoring, while providing a context for research, a site for field experiences for graduate students in literacy education courses, a context for graduate and undergraduate study, and an opportunity for undergraduates to develop play-based literacy experiences for the children of adults or siblings of children receiving literacy tutoring.

The pilot groups are families whose other children are enrolled in the Katharine Durst Child Development Center. Bennett-Armistead also is developing partnerships with a local adult education coordinator to recruit teen parents who would benefit from additional parenting support, particularly around developing language and literacy in their children. She and her team also have reached out to Literacy Volunteers and the Intensive English Institute to provide tutoring for adult learners.

Inspired by a mentor

Many UMaine students arrive in Orono with limited financial resources or encounter sudden financial hardships as the result of an illness, parental unemployment or divorce, or other circumstances beyond their control. Fortunately for these students, thoughtful and generous donors have set up emergency funds to help them remain enrolled at UMaine and complete their degrees.

To help students facing problems that can interfere with their education, Roy F. Jeffrey '68, '72G established the Frederick E. Hutchinson (College of) Natural Sciences, Forestry, and Agriculture Emergency Fund. Jeffrey, a retired University of Connecticut Extension educator, considered President Emeritus Hutchinson to be a tremendous mentor and wished to honor him by creating a student-oriented fund in his name. The Hutchinson Fund helps students who require short-term, immediate financial assistance. The fund covers costs related to housing, heating and utilities, medical and dental care, books or other needs for which the student has no other source of funds.

The Hutchinson Fund is one of several to address the immediate financial plights of some UMaine students. Robert Q. Dana '80 and Linda Philbrook Dana '80 established the Student Life Emergency Fund several years ago. As vice president for Student Life and dean of students, Robert Dana understands the desperation that some students feel. "We have had students forced to make choices between textbooks and insulin," he explains. "The vast majority of these students are already working, many of them full time. They are not looking for a long-term handout; they just need help overcoming what is often a 'perfect storm' of bad luck."

"As a student, I experienced firsthand a period of financial uncertainty that led directly to food insecurity and a subsequent decline in my academic performance. My hope is that students today know that resources are available when they encounter unforeseen financial distress."

Roy F. Jeffrey '68, '72G

Fred Hutchinson '53, '58G in lab with student, circa 1950

Touched by the generosity of one of her husband's students, President Emeritus Hutchinson's wife Dione Williams Hutchinson '54, '71G has made additional gifts to this fund in her husband's name to ensure that it continues to provide for students in need.

“We sincerely appreciate Gretchen’s generosity as a donor, and are equally grateful for the hours she spends with our students and horses. The quality of life for horses like Wicky has definitely improved thanks to Gretchen, and her support has helped us to fund student positions and improve the welfare of all the horses at the farm. We hope to remain part of a very happy and rewarding retirement.”

Robert C. Causey, DVM, Ph.D.
Coordinator of UMaine’s Equine Program

Inspired by a passion for horses

Gretchen Gfeller ’83G worked for UMaine for 37 years before she retired as public relations manager for the Raymond H. Fogler Library. She is a woman of myriad interests, whose many workplace innovations included a popular therapy dog program. As she approached retirement, however, one passion eclipsed others — her commitment to the horses at UMaine’s J.F. Witter Teaching and Research Center.

“My father grew up on a ranch out West and ensured that I spent time around horses as a child,” she explains. “As I neared retirement, I knew that I wanted a second life — one that involved horses. I thought I would have to leave the area and felt torn, because I have so many relationships here.” Over time, Gfeller learned more about UMaine’s Equine Program and called its coordinator about donor opportunities that might include working with the horses. “I realized it was all in front of me. I could remain engaged with students while working around horses, close to home. It’s been marvelous,” she says.

Under the direction of Cassie Astle, UMaine’s equine trainer, and Alexandria Poulin, a master’s student in animal and veterinary sciences, Gfeller enjoys grooming and spending time with several horses, including animals that are older and injured. Most mornings, she is at the Witter Center to take Long Wick “Wicky” out to graze.

Gfeller enjoys seeing how her gifts immediately impact the horses. “We’ve been able to purchase new winter blankets for the horses and new shelters in the paddock,” she says. “I think it’s really important for donors to make sure that they are addressing a real need at UMaine.”

2013–15 ADVANCE Career Recognition Awardees

The University of Maine ADVANCE Rising Tide Center was established with funding from the National Science Foundation. UMaine President Susan J. Hunter '50H, Ph.D. was a principal investigator for the grant. In recent years, the center has recognized six faculty who have made significant contributions to their disciplines, and to UMaine. Sandy Butler, social work; Rosemary Smith, electrical and computer science; Marie Hayes, psychology; Kate Beard-Tisdale, computing and information science; Susan Brawley, marine sciences; and Mary Tyler, biology and ecology.

Inspired by women in leadership

The President Susan J. Hunter Fund was established in 2014 to honor UMaine's first woman president. Distributions from the endowment will help facilitate a more diverse workforce at UMaine by fostering the professional development of faculty members with a focus on women and under-represented minorities.

The new fund honors and expands on President Hunter's longtime commitment to women in the sciences. As provost, she was a principal investigator for a $3.2 million, five-year National Science Foundation grant that has helped to create systemic approaches to increase the representation and advancement of women in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) fields.

Eric Brennan '68, '73G and his wife, Betty, were among the donors to the President Susan J. Hunter Fund. He describes their gift as a means of honoring a leader while investing in UMaine's future. "The University of Maine is truly fortunate to have a leader like Sue Hunter at the helm. She has tremendous knowledge of our land and sea grant university and its people. My wife Betty and I were delighted to make a gift in her honor that will benefit faculty and students in science, technology, engineering, math and social sciences."

"Katherine epitomized the teaching, research and community outreach mission of a public research university."

President Susan J. Hunter '50H, Ph.D.

In 2015, a special dinner was held as part of President Hunter's installation. Alumni and friends made gifts to the Hunter Fund as part of the celebration. Katherine Musgrave '74G, '06 Hon. Sc.D., a longtime University of Maine professor and nutritionist, served as honorary chair of the installation dinner — a role that was especially meaningful to President Hunter. In June, professor Musgrave passed away.

“I chose sociology for my major because I’d like to work for a nonprofit that makes people’s lives better.

I learned more about sustainable food systems in an Honors tutorial. Some day I’d like to look for a job that increases food security for vulnerable populations.”

Sarah Mullis ’16

UMaine students working in the Orono Community Garden

Inspired by experiential learning

Many students attend UMaine because of the diverse opportunities to participate in hands-on research and community engagement. Donors are essential to making such experiences possible for undergraduates. Private support helps cover costs, such as travel, supplies and professional conferences.

Sarah Mullis ’16 is a first-generation Honors College student from Corinna who is majoring in sociology and minoring in sustainable agriculture. The Charlie Slavin Research Fund, created in memory of the college’s longtime dean, is supporting Mullis’ thesis research on the Orono Community Garden.

John Jemison, soil and water quality specialist for University of Maine Cooperative Extension, started the Orono Community Garden. Mullis will be investigating how the garden impacts food insecurity and social isolation among senior citizens in Orono. Her research will not only have local significance, but also has the potential to contribute to a broader understanding of aging and food security.

Mullis also received a Sustainable Food Systems Research Collaborative (SFSRC) Fellowship, funded as part of a National Science Foundation grant. SFSRC is an Honors College initiative connecting students, faculty and community partners in an interdisciplinary approach to addressing problems in our food system.

The Slavin Fund is one of several funds in the Honors College that supports undergraduates. The Rendle A. Jones ’65 and Patricia K. Jones ’65 Honors Thesis Fund, Carolyn E. Reed ’72 Pre-Medical Thesis Fellowship, and the Charles Stanhope ’71 Study Abroad Fellowship are examples of other funds created by generous donors to help Honors College students.

Inspired to create leaders

Stacey M. Gomm '11 and Brian Harris '11 were busy as UMaine students, participating in Greek Life, Student Government and the NEW Leadership Program, among other activities. Their lives have not slowed down since graduation. With a degree in civil engineering, Gomm works for Turner Construction. Harris majored in psychology and with a minor in music co-founded MedRhythms (medrhythmstherapy.com) several years ago with friend and fraternity brother, Owen McCarthy '10. MedRhythms focuses on the intersection between music and neuroscience to help patients with diverse diagnoses meet sensorimotor, speech and language, and cognitive goals.

In addition to launching their careers and preparing for their wedding, Gomm and Harris are active in Black Bears of Boston, and connect with alumni through traditions such as an annual November Friendsgiving celebration. "Our (UMaine) support network is amazing," says Gomm.

Gomm made her first gift to the Annual Fund in 2014; an employer match made her eligible for the President's Club, a recognition society for those who give at least $1,000 a year. "It is always rewarding to have young alumni step up to the plate and join the President's Club," says Christina Weston Caron '05, director of annual giving. "When young alumni give at the President's Club level, it's typically a reflection of a very positive UMaine experience and continued connections with members of the UMaine community."

Harris notes that their philanthropic spirit has deep roots, and both anticipate a lifetime of shared community service and volunteerism as an essential element of their marriage. "We were brought up this way, to give more than we receive," he explains.

"We want to help UMaine students have great leadership experiences outside of the classroom and really appreciate what the Bodwell Center does. Brian and I look forward to doing much more for UMaine in the future."

Stacey Gomm '11

Stacey Gomm and Brian Harris are two of many young alumni, including other "Bear Pair" couples, who affiliate with the Black Bears of Boston and contribute generously to their alma mater to help ensure that other students have a great UMaine experience.

“My scholarship gives me the flexibility to work for an organization that gives back to the community without being constantly stressed out about making ends meet. It’s wonderful to know that there are people in the world like Paul Sullivan who make it possible for students like me to reach our goals so that we can help others in return.”

Tristan Wortman '16

Inspired to help others

Paul E. Sullivan '66 of Dallas received his B.S. in business administration from UMaine and spent most of his successful career with ExxonMobil Corporation, retiring as vice president and general tax counsel. He and his wife, Barbara, established the Maine Business School Paul E. Sullivan Scholarship, which has helped numerous Maine students with financial need prepare for a career in business.

One recent recipient of the Paul E. Sullivan Scholarship, Tristan Wortman '16, already is working in his chosen field of marketing while completing his undergraduate degree.

Wortman grew up in Dedham and visited UMaine often for athletic and other special events. He was recruited for UMaine’s Track and Field program and knew immediately that he wanted to be a Black Bear. In addition to setting the UMaine record in the heptathlon, Wortman discovered a passion for marketing. He attributes this passion to his Maine Business School professors and mentors in Athletics.

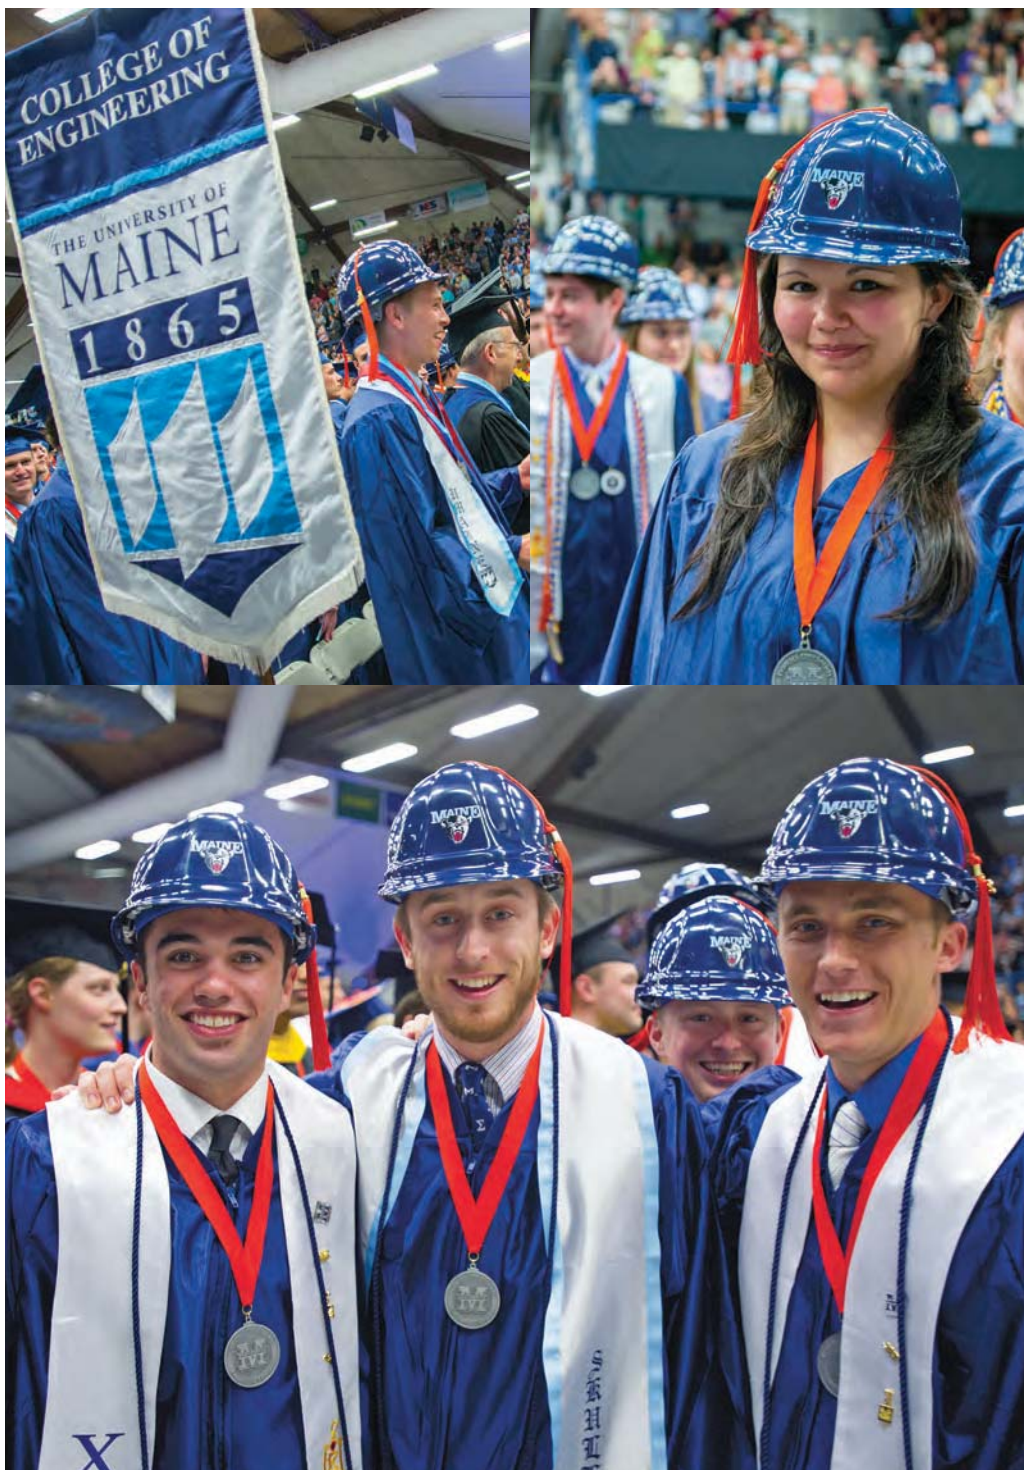

A Dean’s List student, Wortman recently was recruited to be a marketing communications writer by Information Technology Exchange (ITE), an organization in Belfast that helps low-income individuals and qualified nonprofits gain access to technology. Wortman works full time at ITE, telecommuting on days when he attends class in Orono. He and his wife, Jacqueline, value the opportunity to help others in their community.

Wortman notes that his scholarship contributes to his short- and long-term objectives and reinforces his personal values.

Inspired to create scholarships

Matthew McNeary Sr. received his M.S. from the University of Maine in 1941. For 37 years, he and his wife, Esther, lived in Orono, where Matthew taught engineering graphics and advised first-year engineering students. The Matthew and Esther McNeary Scholarship Fund was established by their children: Jeanne McNeary Woodard '61 and her husband Franklin E. Woodard '61, '63G; E. Susan McNeary Billings '62 and her husband Linwood S. Billings '62, '69G; Matthew W. McNeary Jr. '64 and his wife Linda Welles McNeary; and Richard L. "Dick" McNeary '65 and his wife Forrestine "Tina" Abbott McNeary '66. The family scholarship provides financial assistance to students majoring in engineering who are graduates of Maine high schools.

William "Bill" G. Stoy Jr. '71 and Judith Kenoyer Stoy provide generous annual scholarship support to junior or senior students enrolled in electrical and computer engineering. When possible, their scholarship is awarded to students demonstrating financial need from Maine with the personal characteristics of persistence, hard work and perseverance. Members of the Stillwater Society and President's Club, the Stoyes visit campus frequently and enjoy attending games and other special events.

"We are very grateful for the alumni and friends who contribute to engineering scholarships every year. The affordability and high quality of our programs has led to tremendous increases in undergraduate enrollment in recent years. Support for our faculty and facilities are equally important, and we rely on our donors to help us guarantee that every one of our students has an exceptional experience at UMaine."

“The sky’s the limit for our state’s 4-H young people. We are constantly impressed by the creativity and drive of Maine’s budding entrepreneurs.”

Suzanne Grover

Rupert '65 and Suzanne Grover are among the generous donors to 4-H Youth Development, an educational outreach program of University of Maine Cooperative Extension. The Grovers are members of the Stillwater Society and President's Club.

Inspired to create opportunities for youth in rural maine

Rupert '65 and Suzanne Grover of Norway and West Bethel, Maine established the Suzanne and Rupert Grover Youth Entrepreneur Fund with the Maine 4-H Foundation in 2014. The fund, administered with the help of Maine 4-H Foundation Youth Trustees, will offer grants for new small-business ventures led by young people across Maine. Founders of the Oxford Casino, the Grovers also have secured significant annual scholarship support to benefit the entire University of Maine System.

“Suzanne and Rupert have had a tremendous impact on Oxford County and the University of Maine,” explains Susan Jennings '82, executive director of the Maine 4-H Foundation. Jennings notes that Suzanne joined the University of Maine 4-H Camp and Learning Center at Bryant Pond board in 2008. This role has allowed her to offer hours of volunteer service and valuable professional expertise to a program that benefits over 4,500 youth annually through environmental education, conservation and science education.

The Grovers taught in public schools before launching their engineering business, Grover Gundrilling. Their subsequent success fueled a passion for philanthropy, youth aspirations and community service; the Oxford Hills Chamber, Rotary Club and Maine 4-H Foundation have recognized the couple's service and leadership. “Helping others, close to home, is very important to both of us. We find it especially rewarding to help create opportunities for Maine youth to achieve their dreams,” says Suzanne Grover.

“I’m honored to support the Grant Standbrook Maine Hockey Forever Fund and to have the Savages match my gift. This program means so much to so many and it will always be part of the very fabric of who I am.”

Garth Snow '93, '94G

Inspired by teamwork

The University of Maine has the only NCAA Division I Athletics program in the state. More than 600 student-athletes represent UMaine in competition and through community service in hospitals, schools and other venues. Many student-athletes also are leaders in other campus activities, helping shape a culture and experience that is distinct from any other university or college in Maine.

Thousands of UMaine alumni who competed as Black Bears indicate that their experiences as members of a team translate into personal and professional success that lasts a lifetime. As team members, they embraced lessons about setting and meeting individual and group goals; remaining accountable to others; handling mistakes, disappointments and setbacks with grace and maturity; balancing confidence and modesty; respecting others; and celebrating individual and collective achievements. Former student-athletes, whether they have been out of school for one year or many decades, point back to their UMaine Athletics experience as the source of continued self-discipline, courage and personal character.

Former Black Bears and other donors invest in UMaine Athletics to create winning teams, and to nurture the success of individual team members and all that they bring to UMaine and life after graduation.

2015 Endowments/Holdings

Tom Savage '68 (left) and UMaine Athletics Director Karlton Creech, are working together to strengthen UMaine's hockey program. Tom and his wife, Sally Boynton Savage, have created a five-year, $1 million challenge grant to match gifts from UMaine hockey alumni and coaches. The $1 million Savage Challenge matches gifts to the Grant Standbrook Maine Hockey Forever Fund and other hockey endowments as part of an overall endowment-building effort for the hockey program.

As of this report, over 30 percent ($300,000) of the Savage Challenge has been met in less than one year, already setting a new standard for our hockey and coaching alumni giving.

Tom and Sally Boynton Savage are members of UMaine's Katahdin Society; they have given more than $1 million in private support to UMaine, inspiring donors like Garth Snow '93, '94G to give generously to Black Bear Athletics.

Inspired by a professional legacy

James “Jim” Lynch ’75 established the Mary Simcock Lynch ’77 Clinical Nutrition Laboratory Fund in memory of his wife, who received her undergraduate degree in food and nutrition and worked for a variety of organizations, including the New England Dairy Council and Marriott Corporation. The fund provides support for hands-on undergraduate laboratory experiences in the Mary Simcock Lynch ’77 Clinical Nutrition Laboratory. Distributions from the endowment are used for equipment and supplies, specific student activities and projects, equipment upgrades, and curriculum and pedagogic enhancements.

Adrienne White, Ph.D., R.D., Professor of Human Nutrition, notes that this endowment helps us provide UMaine students with outstanding, practical experiences in our clinical nutrition laboratory. “I am confident that the Lynch family’s gift will have a positive impact on the lives of thousands of people in and well beyond Maine. This strikes me as a truly meaningful way to honor the life and career of a dedicated dietitian, wife, mother and friend,” she says.

“I’m excited about my graduate program and have a special connection with this laboratory. I knew the Lynch family when I was growing up in Waterville. My mother was very close to Mrs. Lynch, who was a wonderful woman.”

Grace Violette ’15, ’17G

Inspired by career impact

Thomas A. Plaisted '45 received his B.S. in mechanical engineering and worked for 31 years for S.D. Warren, a division of Scott Paper Company. His generous bequest established a special fund to provide supplies, equipment, travel, professional services and related expenses for mechanical engineering students completing their senior design projects or participating in student competitions.

Tricia Evangelista '14 worked as part of a capstone design team to develop a surgical device that can be used to help reduce HIV transmission in Africa.

“They couldn’t have built any of these projects if they didn’t have the three previous years of engineering training.”

Michael Peterson, Professor of Mechanical Engineering

Design of a surgical device for HIV-prevention in Africa

How it works

To illustrate how the clamp is used, a step by step procedure of a procedure utilizing this device is displayed below.

Step 1: The bell is placed over the penis, and the foreskin of the penis is pulled up over the outside of the bell.

Step 2: The baseplate and cutting ring system are inserted over the bell, with the bell coming through the hole in the center frame. The foreskin is firmly pressed between the exterior of the baseplate and the bell.

Step 3: The nut is threaded onto the bell. The nut is then tightened evenly by hand to generate the required compressive force. This force creates the needed pressure on the foreskin by creating it between the baseplate and bell.

Step 4: The device is left to sit for 3 minutes. During this time a blood clot forms to stop the internal bleeding generated by the crushing action. This clot temporarily stops blood flow through the foreskin.

Step 5: After the allotted time has passed, the cutting ring is lowered onto the baseplate. The alignment ring on the baseplate has an opening where the blade can be lowered. The blade is pressed against the bell, cutting through the foreskin, and then rotated 180 degrees while being held to its engaged position by the alignment ring. This action cuts off the foreskin of the penis.

Step 6: Once the foreskin is removed, the nut is loosened. The bell and the baseplate will be locked together by the single use interlock mechanism. The slight gap in the interlock allows the bell to slip a fraction of an inch, allowing the whole assembly to be removed from the penis.

Step 7: The clamp is thrown out to ensure that it is never used again. After to compress the surgery, surgical glue is applied at the location of circumcision to prevent the wound from opening. This concludes the surgery.

HIV-prevention in Africa

Michael Peterson, PhD

In 2012, 35.1 million people were infected with HIV worldwide. Since the first cases were reported in 1981, a shocking 1.8 million people have died because of these high infection rates, steps are being taken to reduce the spread of the virus.

One of the most common ways to prevent HIV transmission is through circumcision, which is the most prevalent way to prevent HIV transmission. However, in many parts of the world, including Africa, circumcision is not a common practice. This is due to a variety of reasons, including the fact that it is often performed by untrained individuals, which increases the risk of infection. Additionally, the procedure is often painful and can be expensive. As a result, many people in Africa are at a high risk of contracting HIV.

This list was created based off independent research, in conjunction with advice from medical experts, and experienced field doctor, Dr. Peter Millard. The list of functional objectives used in the creation of this device, is listed below. The device must:

- Minimize, or eliminate, bleeding through application of constant pressure to target areas
- Be single use and require no effort to reuse or sterilize, in order to reduce risk of spreading infections
- Minimize, or eliminate, the use of, and exposure to, sharp surfaces (in order to protect medical staff from risk of infection)
- Be easily and inexpensively manufactured

The clamp applies even pressure to foreskin

The clamp's design ensures the application of even pressure to the foreskin. This is achieved by having a single overhead nut to reduce misalignment between the bell and baseplate. Additionally, the clamp is designed with unique features, including a reinforcement, specially designed to minimize any baseplate deflection to ensure consistent contact between the bell and baseplate. The baseplate deflects less than 0.06 mm (approximately half the thickness of a human hair) under maximum loading conditions.

In addition to even pressure distribution, the clamp is designed to provide adequate pressure to ensure complete hemostasis in the foreskin. The crushing surface of the baseplate is designed with an angle matching the taper of the bell to allow for the distribution of compressive force over the contact area. Additionally, the bell has acute threads at 30° TPI in order to generate the necessary 2,584 N force without bending or buckling off.

The clamp is completely single use

The device is single use and specially designed to become unusable after one operation, in order to prevent the spread of infections through reuse contamination. The single use feature of the device consists of four tabs on the bell which interlock with a slot in the baseplate once the clamp is tightened. After the tabs have interlocked they cannot be removed, and the device cannot be reused. There is a 2.5 mm of clearance in the interlock mechanism to allow the bell to be lowered enough to remove the foreskin after completion of the operation.

The clamp improves the doctors' safety

The clamp has an integrated cutting mechanism that eliminates the need for sharp objects during the procedure, thus greatly reducing the risk of contamination between patient and doctor. After complete hemostasis is achieved all the cutting mechanism's tabs are released, the ring is lowered, and the cutting mechanism is engaged. There is an alignment ring on the baseplate that is engaged as the cutting mechanism is released. Additionally, the alignment ring has a V groove which matches the V slot on the outer edge of the bell to guide the cutting mechanism and ensure a clean cut.

“TIAA-CREF was pleased to sponsor several special events as part of UMaine’s 150th celebration. We are grateful for our partnership with the university and its employees.”

Mark Woods, Relationship Manager for TIAA-CREF

Inspired by UMaine’s 150th celebration

TIAA-CREF is a full-service financial services company that helps many UMaine employees prepare for their retirement. TIAA-CREF sponsored several of the University of Maine’s 150th celebration activities, including the installation of President Susan J. Hunter, Ph.D., a dinner in her honor, and the Honors College Distinguished Graduate Lecture featuring Mark Haskell ’82.

Haskell spoke on the topic of “Federal Regulation of Oil and Natural Gas: Thirty Years of Shifting Regulatory Paradigms, Broken Crystal Balls and Conflicting Policy Priorities.” A graduate of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Honors program, Haskell is a partner in the D.C. law firm Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft. He and his wife recently established a scholarship at UMaine.

A portrait of Mark Haskell, a man with grey hair, a beard, and glasses, wearing a dark suit, white shirt, and red tie. He is standing in front of a large, circular seal of the University of Maine, which features the year 1865 and the text "OF 1933".

Inspired by their undergraduate experience

The David E. '69 and Nancy L. (Hackett) '71 Buker Scholarship Fund was established by a couple who shares fond memories of their undergraduate experience at the University of Maine, where they met. Their endowment benefits students in the School of Nursing and the School of Forest Resources. "We both trace our professional success and fulfillment, as well as our marriage, back to the years we spent in Orono," says Nancy Buker.

"It's a privilege to be able to give back to our alma mater, and to help future generations of students prepare for the career fields that have been so rewarding for us." David E. Buker '69

“Donors like Mr. Moores help our students to avoid or mitigate loans, which pose a substantial financial burden for teachers who are just beginning their careers.”

Susan Gardner, Interim Dean of the College of Education and Human Development

Inspired by a sister and mother

The Patricia and Alvina Moores Teacher Scholarship Fund was established with a gift from Lawrence A. Moores '65, in loving memory of his sister and mother, both of whom had long and distinguished careers as teachers in Maine's rural public schools. The fund is set up to help students who have declared a sincere intention to teach elementary or intermediate school (grades K–8) in Maine.

“Scholarships are very important to our students who aspire to teach in public schools,” says Susan Gardner, interim dean of the College of Education and Human Development. “His gift is very meaningful to our students and is a wonderful way to honor the professional dedication of his mother and sister.”

Inspired by students

The Barbara A. Ouellette Honors Thesis Fellowship Fund was established at the University of Maine Foundation with gifts from Honors College alumni and from colleagues, friends and family upon Ouellette's retirement as assistant dean of the Honors College. The new fund provides awards for students completing their Honors theses, with a preference for students with financial need.

Hina Hashmi '15 graduated magna cum laude with a B.S. in microbiology. Hashmi received the Honors College Rezendes Global Service Scholarship in 2014; for three weeks she volunteered with a public health team in the rural village of Pommern in central Tanzania, which has the highest prevalence of HIV and AIDS in the country. The Rezendes Scholarship, like the Ouellette Thesis Fellowship, provides outstanding learning opportunities to Honors students.

“One of the highlights of my experience was the jubilation of the people.

I remain nostalgic for those mornings when we would wake up to the beautiful voices of villagers singing, the voices heard from the churches every day, and also from the schools.”

Hina Hashmi '15

Matthew Rodrigue '04 and his wife, Carissa, established the Rodrigue Student Affairs Emergency Fund Endowment and have responded to a number of other private-support opportunities at UMaine. The Rodrigues are new members of the Stillwater Society and received their pins at the September 2015 dinner. Matt, a member of the UMaine Board of Visitors and Carissa live in South Orange, New Jersey with their two children.

Ways of Giving

Charitable giving often carries significant tax benefits for donors. All gifts to UMaine and its fundraising partners are tax-deductible to the extent allowed by law. If you have questions regarding the tax implications of your giving, consult your attorney or financial adviser. The type of gift that is best for you depends upon many factors, including your age, health, family and employment situation, assets and lifestyle choices. Many companies will match your gift to UMaine, maximizing the impact of your personal philanthropy.

Cash

Most gifts that benefit the university come in the form of cash. Many donors choose to make their cash gift with a credit card, check or wire transfer. We invite donors to consider our secure online giving site (umaine.edu/givenow).

Payroll Deduction

UMaine employees may make a gift through payroll deduction. Contact the University of Maine Foundation for a payroll deduction form or visit umainefoundation.org/donate-now to download the form.

Bequests

The most common future gift is a bequest, in which the donor includes the University of Maine Foundation in a will or an estate plan.

Appreciated Securities

A gift of long-term appreciated securities often has at least two advantages: it can provide an income tax deduction equal to the fair market value of the securities and may reduce capital gains. It is possible to make a gift using shares of mutual funds, but such gifts typically require more advanced planning as the transfers take longer.

Real Estate and Tangible Personal Property

Make a gift that benefits UMaine and often carries tax advantages. The allowable deduction for a gift of real estate or tangible personal property depends upon several factors.

Life Insurance

You may make a gift of life insurance to the university or one of its fundraising partners by naming it as owner and irrevocable beneficiary of a policy. The gift may be a paid policy, an existing policy with cash value or a new policy.

Trusts

There are a variety of ways to create trusts that benefit you, your loved ones and UMaine. Choosing the right trust or other planned giving vehicle depends on your age, assets and many other factors.

Charitable Gift Annuity

Through a simple contract, you agree to donate cash, stocks or other assets to the University of Maine Foundation. In return, you and someone else, if you choose, receive a fixed amount each year for the rest of your lives.

Increasing the Impact of Your Gift to UMaine

Honoring Others

You can make a gift supporting any area of the University of Maine in memory or honor of a professor, coach, student, relative or friend. Gifts are a special way to celebrate a birthday or anniversary, or the graduation of a child, grandchild or other loved one. Memorial gifts are a thoughtful way to recognize a person's influence and accomplishments while advancing the mission of the University of Maine and helping the students we serve. When you make an honorary or memorial gift, we will (if requested) notify the honoree or next of kin, and will administer the gift as you direct.

Corporate Partnerships

Companies, large and small, are choosing to partner with UMaine in ways that are mutually beneficial. Corporate partnerships can involve internships and assistance with recruitment. The naming of laboratories and other facilities brings visibility for the company, and also is an important source of funding for equipment, scholarships, student travel and other needs.

Recurring Gift

Many donors choose to make an automatic monthly gift to UMaine using their credit card or another type of electronic fund transfer. This is convenient for donors, and can help reduce printing and mailing costs.

Giving Societies

Every gift advances the mission of the University of Maine and every donor makes a difference. Due to space limitations, the following list includes members of UMaine's gift recognition societies. President's Club recognition is based on annual giving to UMaine for the period of July 1, 2014–June 30, 2015.

Katahdin Society

The Katahdin Society honors alumni and friends who have given $1 million or more to benefit the University of Maine. Such exceptional generosity has helped ensure UMaine's success for the first 150 years, and will be even more important in the years to come, as costs continue to rise and the need for exceptional teaching, research and outreach escalates in an increasingly complex world.

Stillwater Society

The Stillwater Society was created in 2000 to celebrate donors who have given at least $25,000 to the University of Maine over the course of their lifetimes. Donors are eligible for the society based on their cumulative outright gifts and irrevocable planned gifts. Some friends and alumni are members of the Stillwater Society as the result of a single gift; others are members as the result of faithful, longtime support. New members are inducted at a formal recognition dinner each year and presented with a pin symbolic of their respective Stillwater Society level.

Charles F. Allen Legacy Society

The Charles F. Allen Legacy Society, named for the University of Maine's first president, was established in 1995 to recognize and honor alumni and friends who intend to remember the University of Maine or its affiliated organizations by making a bequest or other form of planned or deferred gift. Such gifts will benefit the university in the years ahead without necessarily requiring that the donor fund the gift at the present time. While the gift is deferred, the benefits of membership in the society begin immediately. If you let us know that you have provided at least $10,000 for the University of Maine or its affiliated organizations in your will, trust, pooled life income fund, life insurance policy, gift annuity or retirement fund, you immediately become a full member of the society. Charles F. Allen Legacy Society members receive a membership certificate recognizing their intentions and a lapel pin. Members also are honored at a special event on campus.

President's Club

The President's Club is UMaine's front door to special donor recognition. Members of the President's Club give at least $1,000 a year to UMaine. Gifts can be unrestricted or designated for a particular need or priority; they may be used for current operations or directed toward an endowment. President's Club members range from recent graduates to senior alumni, represent virtually every major, are scattered across the country and share a common commitment to improving the lives of others. President's Club members receive a pin and are invited to a special brunch over Homecoming Weekend.

Triple Crown of Support

This report includes the names of alumni and friends who are truly shaping the future of the University of Maine as members of the Stillwater Society, Charles F. Allen Legacy Society and President's Club. The Triple Crown is a realistic goal for many donors who make philanthropy a priority, plan ahead and thoughtfully consider the many ways of giving. There is no ideal way to make a gift; the timing and nature of your gifts will depend on your unique circumstances. We encourage you to work closely with your legal and financial advisers, as well as our fundraising professionals, to determine a path that is mutually beneficial for you, your loved ones and the University of Maine.

Loyal M Society

The Loyal M Society recognizes UMaine's most faithful philanthropists. Membership is open to donors who have made gifts to benefit UMaine over at least two consecutive fiscal years, regardless of the gift amount, type or purpose. Recurring monthly gifts, set up with a credit card or electronic fund transfer from a checking account, are a convenient way to secure ongoing membership in the Loyal M Society. Membership is noted with the years of consecutive support in parentheses, e.g. (15) denotes that a donor has made gifts to UMaine for 15 consecutive years, including FY15. Actual years of consecutive giving may be greater; the count extends back to when the Office of University Development transitioned from paper records to a fundraising database.

Between July 1, 2014 and June 30, 2015, donors gave more than

$21,682,000

to support the mission of the University of Maine

Eldon '64 and Dianne Malloch Morrison, with Habib Dagher (right), executive director of the Advanced Structures and Composites Center. The Morrisons, originally from Washington County, are members of the President's Club and Stillwater Society. Their gifts have supported engineering and biomedical research, as well as general scholarships.

The Collins Center for the Arts welcomed the kickoff performance of the national tour of Stephen King '70, '87 Hon. LHD and John Mellencamp's musical "Ghost Brothers of Darkland County" to its stage as part of its 2014–15 season. The musical served as the annual gala and included a reception and dinner in UMaine's Raymond H. Fogler Library. "The setting for our 2014 gala seemed appropriate and exciting given the Kings' tremendous literary legacy," explains Danny Williams '91, '94G, executive director of the Collins Center for the Arts. "Our annual gala, and our performances in general are made possible by the support of many generous individuals and companies," he adds, noting that private support also helps to fund capital improvements, community outreach, and master classes for UMaine students.

The '65 Tangerine Bowl team was honored as part of Homecoming 2015 at the University of Maine. To celebrate their 50th anniversary, the team raised $100,000 toward the Harold Alfond Challenge. It was a memorable year in 1965 for UMaine football. The Black Bear team, led by quarterback Dick DeVarney '66 and legendary coach Hal Westerman, pulled off a nearly perfect season and received UMaine's only invitation to a national bowl. The team included receivers Denny Doyle '67 and Paul Keany '67, running back Frank Harney '67, and the UMaine football legend John Huard '67, who was inducted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

Philanthropy has always been important to the University of Maine's Hudson Museum. Donors have contributed objects and collections, as well as financial support over the years for exhibits, capital improvements and community outreach. One of the museum's most visible outreach activities is its annual Maine Indian Basketmakers Holiday Market, which attracts collectors and other interested individuals from throughout New England. According to Hudson Museum director and Stillwater Society member Gretchen Faulkner '81, '84G, the market is "the largest holiday gathering of Maine Indian artists in New England, featuring members of the Maine Indian Basketmakers Alliance who have received national awards and new artists representing the next generation of weavers." The market includes children's activities, demonstrations, storytelling, traditional music, dancing and more. "The contemporary artists who are showcased at the event are carrying on traditions that go back thousands of years within their communities. The museum features both the works of contemporary artists as well as the works of their ancestors, bringing our collections full circle," she explains.

The Emera Astronomy Center opened in October 2014. Named to reflect a $1 million gift from Emera, Inc., an international energy and services company, the new center has already attracted thousands of visitors to the UMaine campus. The center was made possible by the generosity of an anonymous donor. "We work very closely with our donors and respect their wishes with regard to recognition," says Sarah McPartland-Good, director of planned giving for the University of Maine Foundation. "While some donors appreciate public acknowledgement for their generosity, we also work with individuals who prefer to keep their giving very private and personal. We deeply value their trust in us and consider it a great honor to quietly facilitate their dreams for UMaine."

A major gift from the Harold Alfond Foundation, coupled with nearly $10 million in state and federal funds, established the Harold Alfond W<sup>2</sup> Ocean Engineering and Advanced Manufacturing Laboratories. The Alfond W<sup>2</sup> Ocean Engineering Lab will prototype coastal and offshore structures, including waterfront port facilities, ships, boats, aquaculture facilities, oil and gas structures, and ocean energy devices under extreme wave, wind and current environments. The Alfond Advanced Manufacturing Lab for structural thermoplastics will utilize digital, additive and robotics manufacturing to reduce cycle time and cost. UMaine students and faculty will work closely with corporate partners in both facilities.

Every attempt has been made to provide a complete and accurate listing of all donors of $1,000 and above in this annual report. If we have made an error, please accept our sincere apology and let us know by contacting our stewardship office: 207.581.1159, sarah.penley@maine.edu. Thank you for your generous support of the University of Maine.

Profile of a Triple Crown Holder

Robert D. Buchanan '44, D.M.D. of Pueblo, Colorado is a member of the Charles F. Allen Legacy Society, Stillwater Society, and President's Club. In addition to achieving the Triple Crown of Support, he is a member of the Loyal M Society, and the gift that he and his late wife, Pearlee, made to name Buchanan Alumni House opened the door for membership within UMaine's prestigious Katahdin Society.

Inspired by great teachers

Krish Thiagarajan was named Alston D. and Ada Lee Correll Presidential Chair in Energy as the result of the Corrells' generous gift during Campaign Maine. Private support is critical for UMaine to attract and retain faculty of the highest caliber. The need is especially great in the College of Engineering, which has experienced tremendous growth in enrollment in recent years.

Thank you for your generous support

As UMaine celebrated its 150th anniversary in 2015, students, faculty and staff paused during their Maine Day activities to say “thank you” to the thousands of UMaine alumni and friends who make a difference through their private support. We hope that our new “thank-a-donor day” tradition will bring the spirit of Maine Day to Black Bears across the state, nation and world.
